

Contents

The symbol # indicates that inexperienced writers should pay particular attention to this subsection.

Part I Writing Skills

1 Planning and Preparation	3
1.1 Think about why you want to publish your research #	5
1.2 Give yourself enough time to plan and write your manuscript #	5
1.3 Choose an appropriate journal, preferably with a high impact factor	5
1.4 Download the instructions for authors from your chosen journal AND from a high impact journal in the same field #	6
1.5 Read and analyze papers for your literature review, and note how they are structured	7
1.6 Identify what the editor is looking for	8
1.7 Choose one paper as a model and note down useful phrases #	9
1.8 Think about the order in which to write the various sections #	9
1.9 Create separate files for each section	10
1.10 Chat with non experts #	11
1.11 Give mini presentations to colleagues	11
1.12 Decide what your key findings are and whether you really have a contribution to make #	11
1.13 For each section, think about how you can highlight your key findings #	12
1.14 Always have the referees in mind #	13
1.15 Referees and English level	14
1.16 How to keep the referees happy	14
1.17 Write directly in English and find ways to improve your writing skills #	15
1.18 Consult online resources #	16
1.19 Summary	17

2	Word Order	19
2.1	Basic word order in English #.....	21
2.2	Compare word order in your language with word order in English	21
2.3	Choose the most relevant subject and put it at the beginning of the sentence #.....	22
2.4	Choose the subject that leads to the most concise sentence.....	23
2.5	Don't make the impersonal it the subject of the sentence.....	23
2.6	Don't use a pronoun (it, they) before you introduce the noun (i.e. the subject of the sentence) that the pronoun refers to	23
2.7	Put the subject before the verb #.....	24
2.8	Keep the subject and verb as close as possible to each other #.....	24
2.9	Avoid inserting parenthetical information between the subject and the verb #.....	25
2.10	Don't separate the verb from its direct object #.....	26
2.11	Put the direct object before the indirect object #	26
2.12	How to choose where to locate an adverb.....	27
2.13	Put adjectives before the noun they describe, or use a relative clause #	29
2.14	Do not insert an adjective between two nouns or before the wrong noun #.....	29
2.15	Avoid creating strings of nouns that describe other nouns #	30
2.16	Ensure there is no ambiguity in the order of the words #	30
2.17	Summary	32
3	Breaking Up Long Sentences	33
3.1	Think above all about the reader #.....	35
3.2	The longer your sentence, the greater the chance it will be misunderstood #.....	35
3.3	Short sentences are not a sign of inelegance and superficiality.....	36
3.4	Why and how long sentences are created #	37
3.5	and #.....	38
3.6	as well as	40
3.7	Other link words that introduce additional information: moreover, in addition, furthermore	40
3.8	Link words that compare and contrast: whereas, on the other hand; although, however	41
3.9	Link words that give explanations: because, since, as, in fact	42
3.10	Link words that express consequences: owing to, due to, as a result of, consequently, thus etc.	42
3.11	which and relative clauses #.....	43
3.12	-ing form	45
3.13	in order to	46
3.14	Excessive numbers of commas #	47

3.15	Semicolons.....	48
3.16	Semicolons in lists.....	49
3.17	Phrases in parentheses.....	50
3.18	Summary.....	51
4	Structuring Paragraphs and Sentences	53
4.1	The key to good writing: always think about the reader #.....	55
4.2	General structure of a paragraph #.....	56
4.3	How to structure a paragraph: an example #.....	57
4.4	First paragraph of a new section - begin with a mini summary plus an indication of the structure.....	59
4.5	First paragraph of a new section - go directly to the point.....	60
4.6	Deciding where to put new and old information within a paragraph #.....	61
4.7	Deciding where to put new and old information within a sentence #.....	63
4.8	Link each sentence by moving from general concepts to increasingly more specific concepts.....	64
4.9	Present and explain ideas in the same (logical) sequence.....	65
4.10	Don't force the reader to have to change their perspective.....	67
4.11	Use a consistent numbering system to list phases, states, parts etc.	68
4.12	Begin a new paragraph when you talk about your study and your key findings #.....	68
4.13	Break up long paragraphs #.....	69
4.14	Look for the markers that indicate where you could begin a new sentence #.....	70
4.15	Concluding a paragraph: avoid redundancy.....	71
4.16	Summary.....	72
5	Being Concise and Removing Redundancy	73
5.1	Cut, cut and then cut again #.....	75
5.2	Write less, make less mistakes #.....	75
5.3	Cut redundant words #.....	76
5.4	Prefer verbs to nouns #.....	77
5.5	Use one verb (e.g. analyze) instead of a verb+noun (e.g. make an analysis) #.....	77
5.6	Reduce the number of link words.....	78
5.7	Choose the shortest words.....	79
5.8	Choose the shortest expressions.....	80
5.9	Use the shortest adverbial expression.....	81
5.10	Avoid pointless introductory phrases.....	81
5.11	Avoid impersonal expressions.....	82
5.12	Reduce your authorial voice.....	83
5.13	Be concise when referring to figures and tables.....	83

5.14	Use the infinitive when expressing an aim.....	84
5.15	Redundancy versus Conciseness: an example	84
5.16	Constantly ask yourself - does what I am writing add value for the reader?.....	86
5.17	Summary	87
6	Avoiding Ambiguity and Vagueness	89
6.1	which / who vs. that #	91
6.2	which, that and who #	92
6.3	- ing form vs. that #.....	92
6.4	- ing form vs. subject + verb #	93
6.5	- ing form with by and thus #	94
6.6	a, one and the #	95
6.7	Uncountable nouns.....	96
6.8	Pronouns #	97
6.9	Referring backwards: the former, the latter	99
6.10	above and below	100
6.11	Use of respectively to disambiguate.....	100
6.12	and #.....	101
6.13	both ... and, either ... or	101
6.14	False friends	102
6.15	Latin words - i.e. versus e.g.	102
6.16	Monologophobia - the constant search for synonyms #	103
6.17	Be as precise as possible #	104
6.18	Choose the least generic word	106
6.19	Summary	107
7	Clarifying Who Did What	109
7.1	Check your journal's style - first person or passive #	111
7.2	How to form the passive and when to use it #	111
7.3	Ensure you use the right tenses to differentiate your work from others, particularly when your journal prohibits the use of we	112
7.4	For journals that allow personal forms, use we to distinguish yourself from other authors	114
7.5	Do not use we to explain your thought process	115
7.6	When we is acceptable, even when you are not distinguishing yourself from other authors	115
7.7	Make good use of references #	116
7.8	Ensure that readers understand what you mean when you write the authors #.....	117
7.9	Use short paragraphs #.....	118
7.10	Make logical connections between other authors' findings and yours #	118
7.11	Summary	119

8 Highlighting Your Findings	121
8.1 Ensure that referees can find and understand the importance of your contribution #.....	123
8.2 Help your findings to stand out visually on the page by beginning a new paragraph #.....	123
8.3 Make your sentences shorter than normal	124
8.4 Present your key findings in a very short sentence and list the implications	125
8.5 Consider using bullets and headings	126
8.6 Use tables and figures to attract attention	127
8.7 Signal to the reader that you are about to say something important by using more dynamic language.....	127
8.8 Only use specific terms when describing your key findings #.....	128
8.9 Avoid flat phrases when discussing key findings #.....	128
8.10 Be explicit about your findings, so that even a non-expert can understand them	129
8.11 Convincing readers to believe your interpretation of your data	130
8.12 Show your paper to a non-expert and get him / her to underline your key findings	131
8.13 Beware of overstating your project's achievements and significance.....	132
8.14 Summary	132
9 Hedging and Criticising	133
9.1 Why and when to hedge #.....	135
9.2 Highlighting and hedging	137
9.3 Toning down verbs.....	138
9.4 Toning down adjectives and adverbs.....	138
9.5 Toning down strong claims by inserting adverbs.....	139
9.6 Toning down the level of probability	140
9.7 Anticipating alternative interpretations of your data	141
9.8 Telling the reader from what standpoint you wish them to view your data	142
9.9 Dealing with the limitations of your research.....	143
9.10 Saving your own face: revealing and obscuring your identity as the author in humanist subjects.....	144
9.11 Saving other author's faces: put their research in a positive light.....	145
9.12 Saving other author's faces: say their findings are open to another interpretation	146
9.13 Don't overhedge.....	146
9.14 Hedging: An extended example from a Discussion section	147
9.15 Summary	149

10 Paraphrasing and Plagiarism	151
10.1 Plagiarism is not difficult to spot #	153
10.2 You can copy generic phrases #	153
10.3 How to quote directly from other papers	154
10.4 How to quote from another paper by paraphrasing #	155
10.5 Examples of how and how not to paraphrase #	157
10.6 Paraphrasing the work of a third author	158
10.7 How to check whether you have inadvertently committed plagiarism	158
10.8 Summary	159

Part II Sections of a Paper

11 Titles	163
11.1 How can I generate a title? #	165
11.2 How can I make my title more dynamic?	165
11.3 Can I use my title to make a claim?	166
11.4 Are questions in titles a good way to attract attention?	166
11.5 When is a two-part title a good idea?	167
11.6 How should I punctuate my title?	167
11.7 What words should I capitalize?	167
11.8 What types of words should I try to include?	168
11.9 What other criteria should I use to decide whether to include certain words or not?	168
11.10 Will adjectives such as innovative and novel attract attention?	169
11.11 How can I make my title shorter?	170
11.12 Is it a good idea to make my title concise by having a string of nouns? #	170
11.13 Should I use prepositions? #	172
11.14 Are articles (a / an, the) necessary? #	172
11.15 How do I know whether to use a or an ?	174
11.16 Is using an automatic spell check enough? #	175
11.17 Summary: How can I assess the quality of my title? #	176
12 Abstracts	177
12.1 What is an abstract? How long should it be? #	179
12.2 When should I write the Abstract?	179
12.3 How should I structure my Abstract? #	180
12.4 Formal, natural and applied sciences. How should I structure my abstract? How much background information?	180
12.5 Social and behavioral sciences. How should I structure my abstract? How much background information?	181
12.6 I am a historian. We don't necessarily get 'results' or follow a specific methodology. What should I do?	182

12.7	I am writing a review. How should I structure my Abstract?	183
12.8	How should I begin my Abstract?	184
12.9	What style should I use: personal or impersonal?	185
12.10	What tenses should I use?	186
12.11	How do I write a structured abstract?	187
12.12	How do I write an abstract for a conference?	188
12.13	How do I write an abstract for a work in progress that will be presented at a conference?	189
12.14	How should I select my key words? How often should I repeat them?	190
12.15	Should I mention any limitations in my research?	190
12.16	What should I not mention in my Abstract?	191
12.17	How can I ensure that my Abstract has maximum impact?	191
12.18	What are some of the typical characteristics of poor abstracts? #	191
12.19	Summary: How can I assess the quality of my Abstract? #	193
13	Introduction	195
13.1	How should I structure the Introduction? #	197
13.2	How should I begin my Introduction? #	197
13.3	How should I structure the rest of the Introduction? #	199
13.4	I do not work in the field of a 'hard' science. Are there any other ways of beginning an Introduction?	200
13.5	What typical phrases should I avoid in my Introduction?	201
13.6	How does an Introduction differ from an Abstract?	201
13.7	What tenses should I use? #	203
13.8	How should I outline the structure of my paper?	204
13.9	Summary: How can I assess the quality of my Introduction? #	205
14	Review of the Literature	207
14.1	How should I structure my Review of the Literature? #	209
14.2	How should I begin my literature review? How can I structure it to show the progress through the years? #	209
14.3	What is the clearest way to refer to other authors? Should I focus on the authors or their ideas? #	210
14.4	What tenses should I use? #	211
14.5	How can I reduce the amount I write when reporting the literature?	213
14.6	How can I talk about the limitations of previous work and the novelty of my work in a constructive and diplomatic way?	214
14.7	Summary: How can I assess the quality of my Literature Review? #	215

15	Methods	217
15.1	How should I structure the Methods? #	219
15.2	How should I begin the Methods? #	219
15.3	What tense should I use? Should I use the active or passive? #.....	220
15.4	How many actions can I refer to in a single sentence? #.....	221
15.5	How can I avoid my Methods appearing like a series of lists?.....	222
15.6	Can I use bullets?.....	223
15.7	How can I reduce the word count?.....	223
15.8	How should I designate my study parameters in a way that my readers do not have to constantly refer backwards?	223
15.9	Should I describe everything in chronological order?	224
15.10	What grammatical constructions can I use to justify my aims and choices?	225
15.11	What grammatical construction is used with allow , enable and permit ? #.....	225
15.12	How can I indicate the consequences of my choices and actions?.....	227
15.13	How should I use the definite and indefinite articles in the Methods?.....	227
15.14	Should I write numbers as digits (e.g. 5, 7) or as words (e.g. five, seven)?	228
15.15	How can I avoid ambiguity?	229
15.16	What other points should I include in the Methods? How should I end the Methods? #	230
15.17	Summary: How can I assess the quality of my Methods section? #.....	231
16	Results	233
16.1	How should I structure the Results? #	235
16.2	How should I begin the Results? #.....	235
16.3	How should I structure the rest of the Results? How should I end the Results? #.....	235
16.4	Should I report any negative results? #.....	236
16.5	What tenses should I use when reporting my Results? #.....	236
16.6	What style should I use when reporting my Results? #.....	237
16.7	Can I use a more personal style?.....	238
16.8	How can I show my readers the value of my data, rather than just telling them?.....	238
16.9	How should I comment on my tables and figures?	239
16.10	What is the difference between reporting and interpreting?	240
16.11	How can I make it clear that I am talking about my findings and not the findings of others? #.....	241
16.12	Summary: How can I assess the quality of my Results section? #	242