Table of Contents

13 A Game of Patience for a New Art History – Roberto Gargiani

17 Chapter One. The British Debate in Search of a New-ism
17 Reactions to the International Style and the Myth of the Pioneers of the Modern Movement
20 Principles of Truth: The Revival of Pugin, Ruskin and Morris
22 Roughness, Accident and Irregularity for a New Picturesque
24 New Humanism, New Empiricism, New Monumentality
31 The Functional Tradition for National Unification
32 The Neo-Palladianism of Wittkower and Rowe

37 Chapter Two. Le Corbusier and Béton Brut
37 From 'Béton armé' to 'Béton brut' at the Unité in Marseille
39 Architecture d'Aujourd'hui and Art Brut
41 Le Point and the Concept of Béton Brut
44 The Humanism of Béton Brut

49 Chapter Three. The Invention of a Definition: from Asplund to the Smithsons
49 The First Brutalist Building: Villa Göth
52 The Unité as a Model for English Reconstruction
56 New Movement-Classical-Complex-Human
63 The Smithsons' New Brutalism
69 Early Definitions of New Brutalism: Segal and the English Magazines
75 Johnson's Anti-Design
77 Banham's Radical Philosophy
79 Formalism, Roughness and Brutality
82 Smithsons' Anti-Art Architecture for a New Aesthetic
83 New Brutalism Will Take Many Forms
86 The Case of the School at Hunstanton
88 Piranesi and Mies in Blake's New Brutalism
91 Futurist Connections for a 'Mechanistic Brutalism'
92 Stirling and the Primitive Aesthetics, or the Maisons Jaoul Model

97 Chapter Four. Banham's Memorable Article
97 A Category of the New Art History
101 The Origins in Le Corbusier's Béton Brut
103 Early Brutalism
105 Anti-art and As Found: For 'une Architecture Autre'
106 Wittkower, Rowe and the Anti-Brutalists
107 The Role of the Yale Art Gallery
109 Image, 'Quod Visum Perturbat'

115 Chapter five. Critical Precisions: from Summerson to Lasdun
115 The Old Rigour according to Summerson
119 Le Corbusier's Brutal Concrete, from Zevi to Scully
125 The Strict-Brutalists
129 Thoughts in Progress on the Brutalist Canon
131 The Smithsons' Ethics
133 Style and Attitude

137 Chapter six. International Brutalism: from Zevi to Joedicke
137 Zevi and the First Italian Brutalist
143 Romantic, Informal, Naturalistic: Italian Variations
150 Premises for American Brutalism
153 The Carnegie Institute Student Questionnaire
157 Kallmann's Action Architecture
160 Directions and Dilemmas beyond the International Style
167 Pevsner and Stirling vs. the Brutalist Aesthetics
175 The Essential Ethic of Brutalism Is in Town Building
177 Anti-Miesian Brutalism by Pehnt and Joedicke

187 Chapter Seven. The New Brutalism: Ethic or Aesthetic? by Joedicke and Banham
187 Joedicke's Proposal for a Monograph on New Brutalism
192 Towards the Final Structure of the Book
196 Banham's New Brutalism: From Materials to Ethics
201 Beyond Brutalism: 'The Total Environment'
205 Brutalist Style
210 The Economist Building vs. Leicester University

215 Chapter Eight. The Sad End of New Brutalism
215 Pevsner and the Anti-Pioneers
218 New Brutalism's Obituary
221 The Old Brutalism
223 The Smithsons' Answer to Banham: Robin Hood Gardens

233 Bibliography: Primary Sources
253 Bibliography: Secondary Sources